Repeal
of Act
7 of 1922.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Emigration Act, 1922 which governs the regulation of emigration of skilled and unskilled workers from India was tailored to meet the requirements of a different era and has gradually ceased to be an effective regulatory instrument. During the past five years or so, with the rapidly increasing flow of Indian workers to foreign countries for employment purposes, the subject emigration has become a matter of increasing concern both for Government and the public in general. The Government had initiated a system of registration of recruiting agents and laid down certain minimum terms and conditions of service on which emigration of different categories of workers was to be allowed. The Supreme Court in its order dated 20th March, 1979 in the case of Kanga and others versus the Union of India laid down four basic conditions according to which emigration of Indian workers was to be regulated until the passage of a new legislation on the subject. This order was issued on the basis of information provided to the Supreme Court that Government was in the process of introducing a new legislation on the subject which was expected to be finalised by July, 1979. This, however, could not be accomplished and on August 21, 1979, the Supreme Court reiterated that emigration applications will be processed in accordance with the conditions laid down earlier and that no new conditions should be imposed by the Government except by new legislation or rules. Following the Supreme Court order of August, 1979, which, in effect, took away from the Government the power to scrutinise terms and conditions of Indian workers emigrating abroad for employment, action had been taken to bring legislation for the purpose. The present Bill is the culmination of these efforts.

2. The following are the salient features of the Bill:—

(i) No Indian citizen (unless exempted) can leave India for taking up abroad work as defined in the Bill without obtaining a certificate of emigration clearance from the Protector of Emigrants.

(ii) An emigrant worker can be recruited for a job in a foreign country either by a recruiting agent registered under the Act or by an employer, subject to his being permitted to do so under the Act.

(iii) No prior scrutiny of applications for registration of agents is required. Registration of recruiting agent has been made subject to an affidavit, an undertaking and an amount of security which shall not be less than rupees one lakh. When a certificate issued to a person has been cancelled, he shall not be eligible to make any application for another certificate until a period of two years from the date of such cancellation.

(iv) The decisions of the specified authorities in regard to cancellation, suspension and rejection of permits, registration and other matters are appealable to the Central Government,

(v) Taking into account the concern expressed at various forums on the matter of exploitation of emigrants by recruiting agents and employers, provision has been made for offences of this nature and punishment by way of imprisonment up to a period of two years and fine up to two thousand rupees have been provided in the Bill.

(vi) Provision has been made for the repeal of the Emigration Act, 1922.

3. The Bill seeks to achieve the above objects.

NEW DELHI;

VEERENDRA PATIL.

The 18th July, 1983.

Notes on clauses

Clause 2 gives the definition of words and phrases used in the Bill. Sub-clause (1) (d) defines an emigrant as a citizen of India who intends to emigrate or emigrates or has emigrated but excludes a dependent of such emigrant and persons who have resided out side India for not less than 3 years after attaining the age of 18 years. Definition of 'work' covers particularly unskilled, semi-skilled and skilled occupations.

Clause 3 specifies the emigration authorities under the Act. Provision is made for the Central Government to appoint at the apex level a Protector General of Emigrants and at the field level as many Protectors of Emigrants as it deems fit.

Clause 4 gives the general duties of the Protector of Emigrants which includes protecting, aiding and advising emigrants and intending emigrants and administration of the provisions of the Act.

Clause 5 gives power to the Central Government to authorise any person to perform all or any of the functions of a Protector of Emigrants.

Clause 6 empowers the Central Government to set up emigration check-posts for preventing or checking the contravention of the provisions of the Act and to appoint a Central Government or State Government officer to be in charge of a check-post subject to the control of the Protector of Emigrants within whose jurisdiction the check-post is situated.

Clause 7 gives power to the Central Government to appoint other emigrant officers and staff to assist the Protector General of Emigrants.

Clause 8 declares all emigration officers to be public servants under section 21 of the Indian Penal Code.

Clause 9 provides for the appointment of a registering authority who may be the Protector General of Emigrants or any other officer of the Central Government of a rank higher than that of a Protector of Emigrants.

Clause 10 makes it obligatory for the recruiting agent to commence or carry on the business of recruitment only on the basis of a valid certificate of registration. In the case of a recruiting agent who is carrying on such business at the commencement of the Act, a period of one month has been provided for him to make an application for a certificate and if he does so, he is allowed to carry on such business till the disposal of such application by the registering authority.

Clause 11 specifies the procedure for making an application for the issue of a certificate of registration. The procedure aims at achieving an automatic system of registration based on furnishing by the applicant of all relevant information, fees and an affidavit as to the financial standing of the applicant. The only restriction is that on being found eligible, the applicant has to deposit an amount of security of not less than 1 lakh of rupees within a period of one month from the date the registering authority requires him to do so.

Clause 12 provides that the form of a certificate of registration, the period of its validity and the terms and conditions subject to which it shall be issued will be provided for by the rules.

Clause 15(1) empowers the Central Government to appoint a competent authority who may be the Protector General of Emigrants or an officer higher in rank than the Protector of Emigrants for issuing permits to employers wishing to recruit persons for employment outside India directly, without the intervention of a recruitment agent. Sub-clause (2) provides that the Central Government may appoint any person employed under that Government in any country or place outside India to exercise the powers of the competent authority and issue permits to employers who are not citizens of India for the purpose of recruiting any citizen of India for employment in such country or place.

Clause 16 provides that an Indian citizen can be recruited for a job abroad either through a recruiting agent or through an employer holding a permit issued by the competent authority.

Clause 17 gives the procedure for obtaining permits. Sub-clause (3) thereof provides the grounds for rejecting an application for a permit. These include incomplete information in the application for permit, discriminatory or exploitative terms and conditions of employment offered to recruits, work for which recruitment is being made being unlawful according to the laws in India, or offends public policy, or violative of norms of human dignity and decency, etc. The competent authority shall, however, record in writing, his reasons for rejecting an application which shall normally be furnished to the applicant.

Clause 18 provides that the permit will be valid for a period, not exceeding one year, as may be prescribed by rules from the date of issue or till the recruitment is completed, whichever is earlier, subject to extension for a period not exceeding three months at a time for sufficient cause.

Clause 19 prescribes that any permit obtained from a person authorised to exercise the powers of the competent authority outside India shall not be valid unless a certified copy thereof is filed with the Protector General of Emigrants.

Clause 20 makes the provisions relating to cancellation and suspension of certificates under section 14 applicable to cancellation and suspension of permits with necessary modifications.

Clause 21 empowers the Central Government to exempt any class or classes of employers from the recruitment of obtaining a permit if it is necessary or expedient so to do in the public interest.

Clause 23 provides for appeals to the Central Government against the orders passed by various authorities under the Act.

Clause 24 lists out the offences under the Act, which includes cheating of an emigrant, and provides for punishment for all such offences with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years and fine which may extend to two thousand rupees.

Clause 25 provides for the commission of offences under the Act by companies.

Clause 26 makes all the offences under the Act cognizable.

Clause 27 provides that no prosecution shall be instituted against any person in respect of any offence under the Act without the previous sanction of the Central Government.

Clause 28 provides that the award of punishment for an offence under the Act shall be without prejudice to any other action which has been or which may be taken under the Act for such contravention.

Clause 29 gives power to the Protector of Emigrants to determine as to whether a person is an emigrant or not in cases where such a question arises.

Clause 30 gives power to the Central Government to prohibit emigration to any country in the interests of the sovereignty and integrity of India, the security of India, friendly relations of India with any foreign country or in the interests of the general public.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 3 provides for appointment by the Central Government of a Protector General of Emigrants and as many Protectors of Emigrants as it deems fit for the purposes of the Act. Clause 6 provides for the establishment of emigration check-posts at such places as may be specified by the Central Government. Clause 7 provides for the appointment by the Central Government of such other emigration officers and employees as it may think fit to assist the Protectors of Emigrants and the Protector General of Emigrants in the performance of their duties under the Act. The aforementioned provisions of the Bill involve expenditure of a recurring and non-recurring nature. The exact quantum of such expenditure cannot be stated accurately at this stage. However, for maintaining the existing set-up which will, immediately on enactment of the Bill, take over the administrative burden, an annual recurring expenditure of about 7 lakhs is projected.

2. The Bill does not involve any other expenditure.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 43 of the Bill seeks to empower the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the provisions of the Act. The matters in respect of which rules may be made, inter alia, relate to the powers and duties of officers appointed for the purposes of the Act and the terms and conditions of their service; the form of the certificate or permits and applications for the issue, etc., of such certificates, permit or emigration clearance to be issued under the Act; the manner and form of authorisation for emigration clearance; the particulars to be contained in an application for a certificate or permit or emigration clearance; the manner in which enquiries under the Act may be held; the manner of verifying or authenticating documents; the form and procedure to be followed in hearing an appeal preferred to the Central Government; fees to be paid in respect of applications and other matters under the Act; the charges which recruiting agents may recover from an emigrant; the terms and conditions subject to which a certificate, permit or emigration clearance may be issued; the period of validity of a certificate or permit and any other matter which is required to be prescribed by rules under the Act.

2. Clause 21 of the Bill seeks to empower the Central Government to exempt by notification in the Official Gazette any class or classes of employers from obtaining a permit under the Act.

3. Clauses 30 and 31 of the Bill seek to empower the Central Government to prohibit by notification in the Official Gazette emigration to any country specified in the notification. While the power to prohibit under clause 30 can be exercised having regard to the sovereignty and integrity of India, security of India, friendly relations of India with any foreign country and the interests of the general public, the power under clause 31 can be exercised on grounds such as outbreak of epidemics or civil disturbances or on the ground of absence of diplomatic relations between such country and India. Clause 32 seeks to empower the Central Government to prohibit, by notification, emigration of any class or category of persons having regard to their age, sex or other relevant factors to any country specified in the notification. It has been provided that a notification prohibiting emigration under any of these clauses shall have effect for such period, not exceeding six months, as may be specified in the notification. In other words, the prohibition would be only for a temporary period.

4. Clause 40 seeks to empower the Central Government to delegate any of the powers and functions that may be performed by it under the Act to the registering authority, a competent authority or such other officer or authority subordinate to the Central Government or to any State Government or, in a foreign country where there is no diplomatic mission of India, to a foreign consular office.

5. Power is also given to the Central Government under clause 41 to exempt public undertakings, foreign dignitaries, foreign employers, etc., from the operation of all or any of the provisions of the Act.

6. The various matters in respect of which powers are proposed to be delegated to the Central Government under the aforementioned provisions of the Bill pertain to matters of administrative detail or procedure or to matters for which it is not practicable to make any provision in the Bill. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.
